LIFE STYLE

THE WORLD OF MUSIC

By W. L. HOFFMANN

Opera had spirit the 'prom' lacked

'La Belle Helene', Offenbach's deliciously irreverent romp through ancient Greece, was the Victoria State Opera's lively contribution to the gaiety of Moomba Week in Melbourne.

Playing in packed houses in the Princess Theatre, it also received rave reviews from all the Melbourne critics — something that in itself is most unusual. And it is a production that fully deserves this success.

Beautifully designed by Kenneth Rowell, and directed by Betty Funder with the feeling for movement and visual effect for which she has become noted, it is a constant delight to the eye. Add to this that Suzanne Steele sings Helene and Robert Gard is Paris, and this visual delight is carried over to the ear.

There are things in this production that even Offenbach would be surprised to see — including Suzanne Steele in the "altogether" — but that was an added attraction of which one feels he would have approved heartily. Conductor Richard Davall kept the tuneful music going with a lilt and swing, and with excellent singing from the remainder of the cast and the chorus this is a presentation of which

Victoria State Opera can feel proud.

It was one of the musical performances provided for visiting music critics attending a National Critics' Circle meeting in Melbourne last weekend. Anyone who thinks that music critics are sour cynics who cannot enjoy a performance should have been sitting in the row behind us on Friday night.

As one Sydney critic said, "This is too good to be only heard here. It should be heard in Sydney and other cities". True enough — and a remark which underlines the growing strength of the regional opera companies in Australia and a realisation, even by Sydney critics, that quality in opera does not reside solely with the Australian Opera.

Lustreless
Unfortunately, the same could not be said for the Melbourne Symphony Orchestra's concert in the Town Hall on Saturday night. The last of the "prom" concerts, and conducted by John Hopkins, it was a rather dispirited and dispiriting affair. Stephen McIntyre was the excellent soloist in a performance of Ravel's 'Piano Concerto in G' which showed that the soloist knew a lot more about Ravel than the conductor or orchestra did, and the main work was Scriabin's 'The Divine Poem' given a lustreless performance.

But it was the lack of any sizable audience which was the saddest thing. Compared with packed houses at the Princess Theatre there were barely 400 people on the "prom" floor of the Town Hall, and less than 100 in the balcony. Apparently the ABC's 'Prom Concerts' have been even more disastrous in Melbourne this year than they have been in Sydney.

Surely the first essential of summer music performances should be that they offer quality musical entertainment. That is what 'La Belle Helene' offered, and what the "proms" have lacked.

Back in Canberra, this week will see the first full concert by the Canberra String Quartet. On Friday night, in the Auditorium of the School of Music, it will play a very interesting program of quartets by Haydn, Hindemith and Ravel. Admission will be free to this recital, which will be the first of the school's faculty concerts for 1977.

Also on Friday evening and in the School of Music Auditorium, but commencing at 5.30pm, the young Canberra cellist Howard Penny will play a recital program including the 'Sonata in E minor' by Brahms, the 'Three Studies' by Don Banks, and the Dvorak 'Cello Concerto in B minor' — a challenging program for a 16-year-old artist.

Canberra's newest vocal chamber group, Gruppetto, will give a concert next Sunday afternoon at 3pm in the Woden Churches Centre, with a program which will include madrigals by Morley, Wilbye and Tomkins, the 'Zigeunerlieder' of Brahms, and Schubert's delightful 'Shepherd on the Rock'. In this latter piece soprano Margaret Sim will be the guest soloist, with Terry Strzaker (clarinet) and Angela Finnegan (piano).

Doeberl Cup ranks high

THE Doeberl Cup Tournament, which will be played again in Canberra this Easter, is one of the top ranking chess events in Australia. This is attested by the quality of the players who have won the event in the past. Among them are no fewer than six Australian national chess champions — John and Cecil Purdy, Hamilton, Flatow, Fuller, and Jamison.

Here is a list of past winners of the Doeberl Cup: 1963 John Purdy; 1964 Cecil Purdy; 1965 Bill Geuss; 1966 Bill Geuss; 1967 John Kellner; 1968 Ken Hill; 1969 Doug Hamilton; 1970 Fred Flatow; Cecil Purdy and Terry Shaw; 1971 Terry Shaw; 1972 Fred Flatow; 1973 Tony Wiedenhofer; 1974 Max Fuller; 1975 Max Fuller; 1976 Robert Jamison.

The entry fee is $15, and entries should be handed in as early as possible to the president or secretary of either chess club in the ACT, or mailed to the ACT Chess Association, P.O. Box 1065, Canberra City, ACT, 2601.

In the third round of the Woden Chess Club event, Kempen beat Barber, Farrell beat Jaksic, Meyer beat Ackermann, Egan drew with Gmiele, Mackay beat Kraitsowits, Herzog beat Hetherington, and Laros beat Marks. Leon Kempen and Roger Farrell are the leaders in this event with three points each.

In the fourth round of the Canberra Chess Club championship tourney, Farrell drew with Chavica, Barber beat Mackie, Hurst beat Douglas, Kempen beat Rye, Butler beat Lamberts, Shumack beat Wood, Clark beat Pummeroy, Henrick beat Welberry, Marshall beat Durbai, and Ryan beat Fitzpatrick. Chavica is leading with 4½ points, closely followed by Farrell, Barber and Hurst with four each.

Here is a lively game from the last round, featuring the typical attack and counter-attack on opposite wings that characterises games where the players castle on opposite sides.

IN 1895 two players sat down in a tournament in Montreal and developed the diagrammed position from the French Defence. The players were Sobernheim and Langleben. Black took a good long look and then played a startling but sound sacrifice to win. The task in this week's chess teaser is to find that win.
