MEMORIES.
Christmas in Exile.

CHRISTMAS CAROL.

The first day of January, 1916, was a most painless occasion for thousands of men who were away from home in the war. The long months of monotony and danger had made the Christmas holiday much than just a day of festivity. The thoughts of home and loved ones were uppermost in their minds. The Weary and homesick Christmas in the trenches was a sad memory for many.

THE OLD ROAD.

The road to the old homestead was covered with snow. The footsteps of the children were audible in the quiet silence.
