UCH of the potential for controversy in the TV drama 'The Cowra Breakout' is beginning to surface. The story is of Japanese prisoners of war who were held in Cowra, New South Wales, during World War II. The drama is set in 1945, just before the end of the war.

The story revolves around a young Australian soldier, Hugh Miller, who is tasked with the decision of whether to release the prisoners, leading to a dramatic and tense situation.

In the story, there is a conflict between the interests of war prisoners and the demands of the government. The story also highlights the impact of war on individuals and families.

The drama is directed by Ken毳y Miller, who is known for his work on other war-themed productions. The cast includes notable actors such as Hugh Miller, who plays the lead role, and Gordon's youngest child, who plays the role of a young soldier.

The drama is scheduled to be aired on Channel Seven in late 1945, with a premiere date to be announced shortly. The film is expected to be a ratings hit, given the popularity of war dramas at the time.

The story is a complex and engaging look at the impact of war on individuals and families, and is sure to be a hit with audiences.

The drama is expected to be aired on Channel Seven in late 1945, with a premiere date to be announced shortly. The film is expected to be a ratings hit, given the popularity of war dramas at the time.

The drama is a complex and engaging look at the impact of war on individuals and families, and is sure to be a hit with audiences.