PHENOMENAL RAINS.

EXTENSIVE FLOODS.

GREAT DAMAGE TO PROPERTY.

The rain that fell yesterday and night was peculiarly severe, and the country from the Murray to the Snowy and from the upper Murrumbidgee to the upper Lachlan was flooded with such extraordinary violence and extent as to bring about great damage to property. Numerous houses were swept away, and the inundation of the river towns and districts was unprecedented. The damage will be assessed at a large amount, but official figures are not yet available.

I'M DINGOES DEPARTED.

A PESSIMISTIC FATE.

The only facility to a human being caused by the inundation of West Australia was the departure of an emigrant from that country. A native, named Sam Weidermann, was found dead in the water off Fremantle. A native, named Sam Weidermann, was found dead in the water off Fremantle. The body was washed up on the shore, and the police are now investigating the circumstances of the death.

SALTWATER RIVER FLOOD.

WATER ROSE SIX FEET IN ONE NIGHT.

When Sergeant Jones, with considerable force, entered the Saltwater River on Monday night, he found that the water had risen six feet in one night. The aboriginals were evidently frightened by the inundation, and many of them were seen to be sitting in the water, apparently in despair. The police are now investigating the circumstances of the inundation.

FACTORY SWEEP AWAY.

Hanging to the halted wire which was stretched across the Saltwater River was a factory, which was swept away by the inundation. The factory was destroyed, and the ironworks were washed away. The police are now investigating the circumstances of the inundation.

The inundation was caused by the overflowing of the Saltwater River, which is fed by the rains that fell in the interior. The police are now investigating the circumstances of the inundation.
