SUMMARY

EUROPE.

INTRODUCTION.
The intelligence received by the hot press of the morning through the agency of our correspondents and the press of other nations, is of a character to excite disquietude and alarm, and since it is very certain that the events are in progress, we may, with the confidence of every other European nation, announce the occurrence of a crisis in which the fate of many States is involved.

The cause of the crisis is the result of the attempts of the Italian republican and democratic party to carry out the wishes of the people of Italy, which they have persistently asserted as the basis of a new order of things.

The Italian republicans, led by Garibaldi, have been attempting to establish a republic in Italy, but in the face of the resistance of the Austrian government, they have been forced to retreat, and the situation now is one of great tension and uncertainty.

The Austrian government, under the leadership of Emperor Franz Joseph, has been determined to suppress the rebellion, and has sent troops to the Italian border.

The French government, under the leadership of Napoleon III, has been more inclined to support the Italian republicans, and has sent troops to the Italian border as well.

The British government, under the leadership of Queen Victoria, has been more inclined to support the Austrian government, and has not sent troops to the Italian border.

The German government, under the leadership of Emperor William I, has been more inclined to support the Austrian government, and has not sent troops to the Italian border.

The Russian government, under the leadership of Tsar Alexander II, has been more inclined to support the Austrian government, and has not sent troops to the Italian border.

The Italian republicans, led by Garibaldi, are determined to continue their struggle, and have called for reinforcements from other European nations.

The Austrian government, led by Emperor Franz Joseph, is determined to suppress the rebellion, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.

The French government, led by Napoleon III, is determined to support the Italian republicans, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.

The British government, led by Queen Victoria, is determined to support the Austrian government, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.

The German government, led by Emperor William I, is determined to support the Austrian government, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.

The Russian government, led by Tsar Alexander II, is determined to support the Austrian government, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.

The Italian republicans, led by Garibaldi, are determined to continue their struggle, and have called for reinforcements from other European nations.

The Austrian government, led by Emperor Franz Joseph, is determined to suppress the rebellion, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.

The French government, led by Napoleon III, is determined to support the Italian republicans, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.

The British government, led by Queen Victoria, is determined to support the Austrian government, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.

The German government, led by Emperor William I, is determined to support the Austrian government, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.

The Russian government, led by Tsar Alexander II, is determined to support the Austrian government, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.

The Italian republicans, led by Garibaldi, are determined to continue their struggle, and have called for reinforcements from other European nations.

The Austrian government, led by Emperor Franz Joseph, is determined to suppress the rebellion, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.

The French government, led by Napoleon III, is determined to support the Italian republicans, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.

The British government, led by Queen Victoria, is determined to support the Austrian government, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.

The German government, led by Emperor William I, is determined to support the Austrian government, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.

The Russian government, led by Tsar Alexander II, is determined to support the Austrian government, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.

The Italian republicans, led by Garibaldi, are determined to continue their struggle, and have called for reinforcements from other European nations.

The Austrian government, led by Emperor Franz Joseph, is determined to suppress the rebellion, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.

The French government, led by Napoleon III, is determined to support the Italian republicans, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.

The British government, led by Queen Victoria, is determined to support the Austrian government, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.

The German government, led by Emperor William I, is determined to support the Austrian government, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.

The Russian government, led by Tsar Alexander II, is determined to support the Austrian government, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.

The Italian republicans, led by Garibaldi, are determined to continue their struggle, and have called for reinforcements from other European nations.

The Austrian government, led by Emperor Franz Joseph, is determined to suppress the rebellion, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.

The French government, led by Napoleon III, is determined to support the Italian republicans, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.

The British government, led by Queen Victoria, is determined to support the Austrian government, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.

The German government, led by Emperor William I, is determined to support the Austrian government, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.

The Russian government, led by Tsar Alexander II, is determined to support the Austrian government, and has vowed to use all means necessary to do so.