Cables.

THE Transvaal War.

LONDON, Sept. 7.

A number of Boer women have looted the houses of the cattle live in the west of the Orange River Colony, and have been identified by the local Transvaal force as outlaws.

Cables.

LONDON, Sept. 7.

A Cape man named Kipsh, who was the first rebel in the Bataafswaart district of Cape Colony, and who has been living in a valley called "Transvaal," was arrested by the Transvaal forces and sentenced to three years' imprisonment.

There were two last two communications received from Cape Colony. One of these, with reference to the recent action of the Cape, is that General Mafeking, in addition to the usual duties of the Cape as fast as they can be performed, is conducting a campaign in the Transvaal. The result of this campaign will be a matter of interest to all countries.

LONDON, Sept. 7.

"The Transvaal War."

An Alliance telegram states that the transport Harriet Smith arrived from Ceylon last night, bringing a large consignment of arms and munitions for Transvaal. The transport was delivered to the Transvaal Government at Cape Town, the point of destination.

Lord Milner had a sympathetic appeal to the Cape Colony in connexion with the current action of the Cape. He stated that it was to be expected that the Cape would have to take care of itself in the future, and that the Transvaal action would cause a certain amount of strain on the Cape Colony. He said that the Cape Colony must have the power to look after its own interests, and that it was not for the Transvaal to interfere with the Cape Colony in this way. The Cape Colony must be able to look after its own affairs, and it was not for the Transvaal to interfere with the Cape Colony in this way.

Cables.

Lord Milner had a sympathetic appeal to the Cape Colony in connexion with the current action of the Cape. He stated that it was to be expected that the Cape would have to take care of itself in the future, and that the Transvaal action would cause a certain amount of strain on the Cape Colony. He said that the Cape Colony must have the power to look after its own interests, and that it was not for the Transvaal to interfere with the Cape Colony in this way. The Cape Colony must be able to look after its own affairs, and it was not for the Transvaal to interfere with the Cape Colony in this way.

Lord Milner had a sympathetic appeal to the Cape Colony in connexion with the current action of the Cape. He stated that it was to be expected that the Cape would have to take care of itself in the future, and that the Transvaal action would cause a certain amount of strain on the Cape Colony. He said that the Cape Colony must have the power to look after its own interests, and that it was not for the Transvaal to interfere with the Cape Colony in this way. The Cape Colony must be able to look after its own affairs, and it was not for the Transvaal to interfere with the Cape Colony in this way.

Lord Milner had a sympathetic appeal to the Cape Colony in connexion with the current action of the Cape. He stated that it was to be expected that the Cape would have to take care of itself in the future, and that the Transvaal action would cause a certain amount of strain on the Cape Colony. He said that the Cape Colony must have the power to look after its own interests, and that it was not for the Transvaal to interfere with the Cape Colony in this way. The Cape Colony must be able to look after its own affairs, and it was not for the Transvaal to interfere with the Cape Colony in this way.

Lord Milner had a sympathetic appeal to the Cape Colony in connexion with the current action of the Cape. He stated that it was to be expected that the Cape would have to take care of itself in the future, and that the Transvaal action would cause a certain amount of strain on the Cape Colony. He said that the Cape Colony must have the power to look after its own interests, and that it was not for the Transvaal to interfere with the Cape Colony in this way. The Cape Colony must be able to look after its own affairs, and it was not for the Transvaal to interfere with the Cape Colony in this way.

Lord Milner had a sympathetic appeal to the Cape Colony in connexion with the current action of the Cape. He stated that it was to be expected that the Cape would have to take care of itself in the future, and that the Transvaal action would cause a certain amount of strain on the Cape Colony. He said that the Cape Colony must have the power to look after its own interests, and that it was not for the Transvaal to interfere with the Cape Colony in this way. The Cape Colony must be able to look after its own affairs, and it was not for the Transvaal to interfere with the Cape Colony in this way.

Lord Milner had a sympathetic appeal to the Cape Colony in connexion with the current action of the Cape. He stated that it was to be expected that the Cape would have to take care of itself in the future, and that the Transvaal action would cause a certain amount of strain on the Cape Colony. He said that the Cape Colony must have the power to look after its own interests, and that it was not for the Transvaal to interfere with the Cape Colony in this way. The Cape Colony must be able to look after its own affairs, and it was not for the Transvaal to interfere with the Cape Colony in this way.