THE SYDNEY GAZETTE.
NEW SOUTH WALES ADVERTISER.

Thursday, March 18, 1824.

A DEPARTMENT OF THE GAZETTE.

The Sailing of the Earl of Linlithgow's. 2d. Letter from the late Earl of Linlithgow to the Prime Minister of the British Government, on the 1st of February, &c. Mr. Hume's Representation of the Same. Mr. Hume's Representation of the Same. Mr. Hume's Representation of the Same.

Attention is called to the following points:

1. The Earl of Linlithgow's Agent in Bombay, Mr. Hume, being informed that the British Government had decided to depose the Portuguese Emperor, and to establish a new government in Brazil, Mr. Hume is of the opinion that the British Government has no right to depose the Portuguese Emperor, and that the British Government's act is an act of aggression.

2. Mr. Hume is also of the opinion that the British Government's act is an act of aggression, and that the British Government's act is an act of aggression.

3. Mr. Hume is also of the opinion that the British Government's act is an act of aggression, and that the British Government's act is an act of aggression.

4. Mr. Hume is also of the opinion that the British Government's act is an act of aggression, and that the British Government's act is an act of aggression.

5. Mr. Hume is also of the opinion that the British Government's act is an act of aggression, and that the British Government's act is an act of aggression.

6. Mr. Hume is also of the opinion that the British Government's act is an act of aggression, and that the British Government's act is an act of aggression.

7. Mr. Hume is also of the opinion that the British Government's act is an act of aggression, and that the British Government's act is an act of aggression.

8. Mr. Hume is also of the opinion that the British Government's act is an act of aggression, and that the British Government's act is an act of aggression.

9. Mr. Hume is also of the opinion that the British Government's act is an act of aggression, and that the British Government's act is an act of aggression.

10. Mr. Hume is also of the opinion that the British Government's act is an act of aggression, and that the British Government's act is an act of aggression.

End of the Article.