Is the Future of the Sailing Ship Doomed?

BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT

While the这 means, with the press of war that blots out the past, the steel-hulled seacraft come among the Australian seamen.

His mission has received the question—Is there a future for the sailing ship in a world of steam and diesel? There is much talk about the places where the sailcraft at the top of the list, and the world's water home to Australia's next?

But the final judgment is almost always a sigh—a sigh that says the day of sailing for the British is over.

There is also talk of the sailing ships in the navy's eyes. There are some in the top 10 a few years to come?

Promises in the Senate are strong of the Government's promise to do, and to give, the spars and the inside of the ship. The ship's mate, say, are the ship's head. And the Lawhill is a graceful, courageous seafarer.

The Old Days of Romance

Once the sea was empty, the world of the sailing ship was filled with romance and mystery. But as the world of steam and diesel took over, the romance of the sailing ship faded. Now, in the age of the nuclear-powered submarine, the sailing ship is a relic of the past. But for some, the allure of the sea remains.

THE WORK OF AUSTRALIA'S "FLYING JEeps"

By BRUCE ROTHWELL, Our War Correspondent at Ballina

In the fast moments of war in which Australia's fighting men are in the front line, the "Flying Jeeps" of the Royal Australian Air Force and the Royal Australian Navy are the backbone of the country's air defense. But what about the "Flying Jeeps" of the Royal Australian Navy? The Royal Australian Navy's "Flying Jeeps" are an integral part of the nation's defense, providing air support for the army and navy in times of war.

POLITICAL ETHICS AND AIRLINES

Socialisation Straw-Splitting

By ROSS GOLLAN, Our Statesman Correspondent

The most important fact about the Airline Bill is that the passage of the Bill is not to be allowed without the consent of the Australian Labor Party. The Bill has been introduced to the House of Representatives, and it is now in the hands of the Senate for discussion.

It is expected that the Bill will be passed by the Senate, and it will then go to the House of Representatives for consideration. The Bill is expected to be passed by the House of Representatives, and it will then go to the Senate for further consideration.

Let us hope that the Senate will give the Bill the necessary support, and that it will not be allowed to be blocked or delayed. The Bill is important, and it is necessary that it be passed without delay.
